

Context Sensitive Design

Bibliography

- Advisory Council on Historic Preservation. Section 106 Regulations Users Guide: Regulations Summary. Advisory Council on Historic Preservation. Website: www.achp.gov/106summaryplain.html
- Bender, Bruce B. (1998). "Development of Vermont's State Standards for Roadway Design." Harmonizing Transportation & Community Goals. Institute of Transportation Engineers.
- Brown, Pamela J. (May 1998). "Flexible Design Risks, Exposures and Defenses." Thinking Beyond the Pavement. Federal Highway Administration.
- Disque, Earl A. The Great River Road – A Model for American's Scenic Routes. National Park Service, Southeast Region.
- Ehrehalt, Alan. (October 1997). The Asphalt Rebellion. Governing Magazine.
- Ewing, Reid. (January 2001). From Highway to My Way. Planning. American Planning Association
- Fambro, D. B., Collings, J. C., Della Vedova, R., Leisch, J.P., and Mason Jr., J.M. (1999). Geometric Design: Past, Present, and Future. Transportation Research Board.
- Federal Highway Administration. (August 2000). International Scanning Tour on Highway Geometric Design: Summary Report. Website: www.fhwa.dot.gov/infrastructure/progadmin/30dscan.htm
- Federal Highway Administration. (February 2000). Public Involvement. Website: www.fhwa.dot.gov/environment/pubinv2.htm
- Federal Highway Administration. (February 1999). Flexible Design/Traffic Calming. Website: www.fhwa.dot.gov/environment/calming2.htm
- Federal Highway Administration (1995). Environmental Policy Statement 1994. Publication No. FHWA-PD-95-006.
- Federal Highway Administration. (September 1996). Public Involvement Techniques for Transportation Decision-making. Website: www.fhwa.dot.gov/reports/pittd/cover.htm
- Federal Highway Administration. Environmental Documents Under the FHWA NEPA Process. Federal Highway Administration. Website: www.fhwa.dot.gov/environment.docs2.htm
- Federal Highway Administration. Environmental Research: Linking Transportation, the Environment, and the Future. Publication No. FHWA-PD-98-017.
- Federal Highway Administration. Mitigation and Enhancement of the Environment. Website: www.fhwa.dot.gov/environment/mitig2.htm

Context Sensitive Design

Bibliography

- Federal Highway Administration. Transportation Project Development and NEPA. Federal Highway Administration. Website: www.fhwa.dot.gov/environment/00001.htm
- Federal Highway Administration. Communities, Neighborhoods, and People. Website: www.fhwa.dot.gov/environment/comm2.htm
- Federal Highway Administration. "Planning Public Involvement and its Role in Project Development." Public Involvement Techniques for Transportation Decision-making. Website: www.fhwa.dot.gov/environment/pi_p_d.htm
- Fischer, E.E., Hohmann, H., and Marriott, P.D. (March/April 2000). Roadways and the Land: The Landscape Architect's Role. Public Roads Magazine.
- Florida Department of Transportation and Federal Highway Administration. (September 1999). Community Impact Assessment: Strategic Plan. Florida Department of Transportation.
- Gavin, Jennifer. (December 2000). A Road Runs Through It. American City & County.
- Gowman, Breland C. (1998). "Standards Vs. Guidelines: Engineering Tools or Legal Weapons?" 77th Annual Meeting. Transportation Research Board. Washington, D.C.
- Grimm, Lewis G. and Welke, Ronald C. (1998). Case Studies of Flexibility in Highway Design. "Harmonizing Transportation & Community Goals", Institute of Transportation Engineers.
- Harwood, D.W., Hummer, J.E., and Knapp, K. (1999). Operational and Safety Effects of Highway Geometrics at the Turn of the Millennium and Beyond. Transportation Research Board.
- Isaacs, Lindsay. (September 2000). Downtown Revitalization Creates 'Urban Rooms'. American City & County.
- Kuhnimhof and Garrick. Functional Classification: The Weak Link in Context Sensitive Roadway Design.
- Landwehr, Tom. (September 2000). Do We Really Want Highways Through Our Neighborhoods? Viewpoint. Pioneer Press Dispatch.
- Lewis, Darcy. (January/February 1999). How to Merge Yesterday's Roads with Today's Designs. Traffic Safety.
- Meyerson, Deborah L. (2000). Getting It Right in the Right-of-Way. Scenic America. Washington, D.C.
- Minnesota Department of Transportation. (July 2000). Technical Memorandum No. 96-37-B-04. Website: www.dot.state.mn.us/tecsup/tmemo/tm96/9637b04.html
- Minnesota Department of Transportation (1999). Hear Every Voice: A Guide to Public Involvement at MnDOT. Executive Summary.

Context Sensitive Design

Bibliography

- Minnesota Department of Transportation. (July 1998). "Chapter 12: Tort Claims." Traffic Engineering Manual.
- Minnesota Department of Transportation. (1996/1997). Road Design Manual, Vol. 1. (Includes both Trunk Highway and State Aid road design standards.)
- Minnesota Department of Transportation. (April 1995). Work Plan: Design Excellence Through Context Sensitive Design.
- National Cooperative Highway Research Program. Risk Management for Transportation Programs Employing Written Guidelines as Design and Performance Standards.
- National Park Service. (1984). Park Road Standards.
- Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD). Integrating Transport in the City: Reconciling the Economic, Social, and Environmental Dimensions. OECD, 2000.
- Otto, Sandra. Environmentally Sensitive Design of Transportation Facilities. Federal Highway Administration. Arkansas.
- Passonneau, Joseph. (May 2000). Context-Sensitive Design of Streets and Roads.
- Peaks, Harold E. and Hayes, Sandra (March/April 1999). Building Roads in Sync with Community Values. Public Roads Magazine.
- Pline, James L. "Liability Doctrine and Concepts." Expert Witness Information Notebook. Institute of Transportation Engineers.
- Pushkarev, Boris. Highway Location as a Problem of Urban and Landscape Design. Regional Plan Association. New York.
- Sears, Bradford G. Highways as Environmental Elements. State University College of Forestry at Syracuse University.
- Surface Transportation Policy Project. Traffic Calming and Pedestrian Paths. Congress for New Urbanism. San Francisco, CA.
- Thinking Beyond the Pavement: A National Workshop on Integrating Highway Development with Communities and the Environment. Conference Summary. (May 1998). The Inn & Conference Center, University of Maryland University College. College Park, MD.